

LITTLE PUNK

Ty, 5

To get a stage-worthy faux-hawk, "make sure the sides and back are really short," says Sapong. A trim every five to six weeks should do the trick. Straight hair tends to hold this shape best, but other textures can definitely pull it off, too. And believe it or not, this look is very versatile. With a bit of gel rubbed between your palms, you can either spike it up for a birthday party or flatten it down as Sapong did here. "It has a punk-rock element," he says. "But you can still go to school every day." (Darn it!)

Nick Farnsuit, $65, Clover New York, acorntoyshop.com. Julius as Einstein hooded sweatshirt, $51, Paul Frank, paulfrank.com.

Styling by Jennifer Smith.
Hair by Johnnie Sapong at Jed Root. Grooming by Souhi at De Facto for Dior.

